RAYMOND HILL DIES AT 20 IN NAVY HOSPITAL

Circleville Youth Victim of Infection Which Developed from Nose Pimple; Body to Be Returned to City

Circleville residents were shocked Monday to learn of the death of Raymond Eugene Hill, 20, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hill, Park Place, in the U. S. Navy hospital, Bremerton, Wash.

His death occurred at 11:40 p. m., Sunday, Circleville time. Young Hill had been in the hospital since last Thursday.

He entered the hospital to receive treatment for an infection on his nose, caused by a pimple. The infection spread to the sinus, then to the brain. Cellulitis was given as the cause of death.

First information received by the family was Saturday about 7:30 p. m. Telegrams and telephone calls to and from the hospital Sunday indicated the youth's condition was becoming more serious hourly.

Joined Navy in 1935

He attended Circleville high school. Young Hill joined the navy in December, 1935. He was stationed on the U. S. S. Louisville. His last visit to his home was made in November.

LIMITED KILLS FIVE OHIOANS

Fast P. R. R. Train Wrecks Auto at Hobart, Ind., Grade Crossing

HOBART, Ind., Aug. 1.—(UP)—The Broadway limited of the Pennsylvania railroad killed five persons today when it struck an Ohio-registered automobile at a grade crossing.

The machine was registered in the name of Mrs. Clara Boevers, Cleveland, O.

A key ring found on one of the victims indicated he was A. L. Wrede, Cleveland.

First reports said the occupants were believed to have been a man, three women and a girl.

All the bodies were mangled. The engine was put out of commission and the crack train was delayed for nearly an hour before a substitute could be provided.

The crossing was protected by flash signals but a building hides westbound trains from view of persons on the road, which the tracks cross at a sharp angle.

DOUG'S TOUR OF CITIES DEPENDS ON U. S. BUREAU

NEW YORK, Aug. 1.—(UP)—Douglas Corrigan, if the Bureau of Air Commerce says okay, will tour American cities in the nine-year-old airplane which carried him on a "wrong-direction" flight from New York to Dublin.

The 31-year-old Californian, en route home on the U. S. liner Manhattan, said last night in an interview that he hoped to fly first to Boston.

To avoid a "miscalculation" such as that responsible for his landing in Ireland when, according to Corrigan, he thought he was headed for Los Angeles, he will "stay down where I can see the ground all the way."

Corrigan said he had received invitations from Boston and other cities, "including St. Louis, Chicago, San Francisco and, of course, Galveston Tex., where I was born."

He said he wanted to make the tour and added that the Bureau of Air Commerce had been "you might say, more than fair."

The Bureau, because Corrigan made the jump to Dublin without permission, suspended his license last week for five days, the suspension expiring next Thursday, the day he is scheduled to arrive here.

Mrs. Frank White, 48, of 243 S. Mulberry street, Chillicothe, was treated in Berger hospital at 2 a. m. Monday for injuries received in one of a series of auto accidents in Circleville and Pickaway county during the week-end.

Mrs. White was cut and bruised about the face and head when the auto in which she was riding struck a pile of dirt in front of the B. P. O. Elks home, N. Court street, where sewer repairs are being made. Her head went through the windshield of the car. She was discharged after treatment.

Mrs. White was riding south on Route 23 in a car driven by her son, Francis White, 25. The son and a daughter, Marquette, escaped injury. The front fenders and bumper of the car were damaged.

Two Parties To Face Six State Tests

Voters Watch Barkley and Chandler Fight For Kentucky Support

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1.—(UP)—Clear tests of both Republican and New Deal-Democratic leadership will be made this week among some of six primary elections.

President Roosevelt intervened forcefully in Kentucky to obtain renomination of Sen. Alben W. Barkley, his hand-picked senate leader. Barkley is opposed in the Aug. 6 primary to Gov. A. B. (Happy) Chandler, a New Dealer in his own right until he challenged the senator's position.

In Kansas tomorrow the nation will watch the progress of the Rev. Gerald B. Windrod who is seeking Republican senatorial nomination against three candidates and over the protest of Chairman John D. M. Hamilton of the national committee, William Allen White, Kansas editor, and other party leaders.

Three additional primaries are scheduled for tomorrow, in Virginia, Missouri, and West Virginia. The sixth primary will take place this week in Tennessee where the conduct of Democratic campaigns for senatorial nomination has brought warnings from the senate campaign expenditures committee.

Virginia's eighth congressional district is smoking with bitter charges between William E. Dodd, Jr., who is establishing himself as a New Deal candidate for the seat occupied by Rep. Howard W. Smith. Smith's record as a member (Continued on Page Two)

Primary Drive In Final Week

BY UNITED PRESS

Just a week and a day from the primary election, rival candidates for party nominations put on their final bursts of speed today for victory at the polls and the right to places on the party ballots in November.

Developments in the contest between Charles Sawyer and Gov. Martin L. Davy in the Democratic gubernatorial contest were expected to make previous encounters seem mild in comparison. Sawyer's friends will attempt to start a "bandwagon" movement for him, and the governor was expected to make every blow count in the final week of an arduous campaign.

The Sawyer faction was arranging for a series of endorsements for him during the last week and hoped to climax it by obtaining a word in his favor from Sen. A. Vic Donahey. Whether they would be successful remained to be seen.

The fight between Robert A. Taft and Supreme Court Judge Arthur H. Day for the Republican senatorial nomination was second in interest only to the Sawyer-Davey contest. Judge Day, who opened a fierce attack upon Taft last week, will take to the radio against him tonight over a five-station hook-up.

New Deal Flayed

Taft in Cincinnati yesterday confined himself to criticism of the New Deal, contending that after five years under the Roosevelt administration, "the nation is about where it started." He criticized what he termed "Russian and European ideas" in some New Deal legislation.

Governor Davey goes on the air tonight for another of his weekly radio addresses, and then starts a swing that will take him into approximately 30 counties. The governor will concentrate his efforts in the rural areas, while Sawyer who was scheduled for at least 10 appearances will visit several of the metropolitan centers. On Friday he will speak over a statewide radio hookup on state welfare problems.

On his arrival in Cleveland today Sawyer took the governor to task on the grounds that he forced the legislature's adjournment in its second special session to prevent further disclosures by the senate graft investigating committee.

"My opponent put on a drive for adjournment to shut off this investigation," he charged.

In Belmont county yesterday Sawyer told several rallies that if elected he would attempt to improve conditions in eastern Ohio coal mining areas by aiding efforts to stimulate markets for Ohio coal.

Bulky on Record

Sen. Robert J. Bulky seeking renomination over the opposition of former Gov. George White on the Democratic ticket, told a Columbus audience yesterday that he would not make campaign promises, but would "stand on a record of performance."

He pleaded for the election of "forward looking legislators" to support a "forward looking President" and reaffirmed his pro New Deal position with the statement that he was a "personal friend and an adherent of President Roosevelt."

HARLAN JURORS RESUME STUDY OF CONSPIRACY

LONDON, Ky., Aug. 1.—(UP)—Twelve grim-faced men resumed deliberations today in the Harlan coal conspiracy case—the government's first attempt to "put teeth" in the Wagner Labor act.

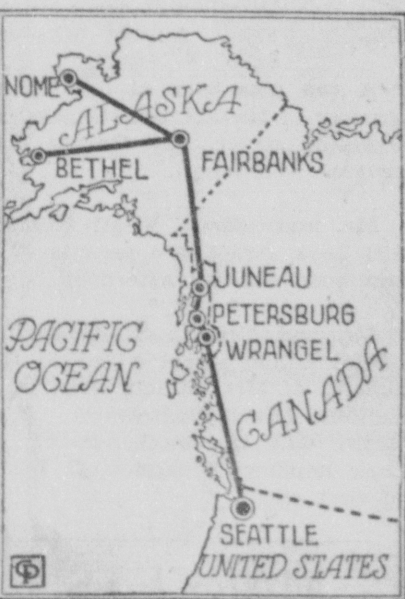

The jurors, who reported Saturday night they were unable to agree after deliberating only five hours and 14 minutes, are entrusted with the responsibility of deciding the guilt or innocence of 55 defendants in the case.

They filed silently out of the courtroom after Federal Judge H. Church Ford remarked simply: "Gentlemen, you may retire and resume consideration of your verdict."

The jury had received the case at 2:16 p. m. Saturday, the 57th day of the trial. At 9:05 p. m., after a brief recess for supper, the jurors reported they were unable to agree and Judge Ford ordered them locked in their quarters over the week-end, asserting:

"I am not surprised. In a complex case of this nature, it is evident you will require a greater time for deliberations."

HEAVY FIGHTING REPORTED FROM KOREAN BORDER

TOKYO RETAKES HILL

Reds Massing Artillery and Motorized Infantry at Edge of Frontier

TOKYO, Aug. 1.—(UP)—The Domei (Japanese) news agency, today reported violent fighting on the Korean border.

Russian artillery and motorized infantry are reported to be concentrating on the Manchukuan-Korean-Siberian frontier, near the scene of week-end fighting between Russian and Japanese-Manchukuan troops in which more than 200 casualties occurred.

Latest Domei dispatch said Korean army headquarters issued a communique saying Soviet airplanes had twice machine-gunned Japanese positions on the Korean border.

The communique declared that the Soviet planes, after twice flying over Changfeng in the disputed area and dropping bombs, machine-gunned the Japanese front line positions. Then they flew lower, reaching the Tumen river and invaded Korean territory, the communique said.

Railroad Bombed

It was charged that the planes bombed the railroad near Kimsjo and Kogi and later shelled a bridge near Keiko.

The Domei dispatch was not clear in some respects, but it indicated that the Japanese shot down five Soviet planes.

Report to Emporer

Prince Kanin left late today for Hayama to report to the emperor "on matters under his jurisdiction." A short time later, Prince Konoye and War Minister Itagaki followed him to Hayama to report to the emperor.

It was expected that the cabinet would meet in emergency session tomorrow. But meantime there were hourly conferences among outstanding military and civil leaders on the situation precipitated by clashes between strong Manchukuan-Japanese and Soviet Russian forces.

Dispatches from the frontier said that all was quiet on the frontier for the moment. It was apparent from the atmosphere here, however, that the government was prepared for fresh clashes—clashes which might be on a far bigger scale than those reported.

According to dispatches which (Continued on Page Two) reached Tokyo, Japanese-Manchukuan troops were dominant along the frontier. It was asserted that the Japanese-Manchukuan held all of the territory which was disputed as the result of the recent occupation by Russians of a hill near Changkufeng, in territory which both Russia and Japan claim.

A foreign office spokesman said today that as the result of week-end developments, border operations had attained the status quo ante—that is, the state in which they had been before the Russian troops occupied the hill.

Negotiations to Open

The next step, he said, would be to open negotiations at Moscow with the aim of gaining Russia's consent to maintenance of the present status.

Japanese official and press dispatches gave the following picture of what actually occurred on the frontier during the week-end, as seen through Japanese eyes:

At 9:30 a. m. Friday Japanese-Manchukuan troops saw Russian troops constructing a new defensive position near Shaotsaping, in the area on the Siberia-Manchukuo-Korea frontier in dispute. Next the Japanese saw that reinforcements were arriving on the Russian side. The Japanese attacked and repulsed them, then retired in hope of avoiding a further clash. However the Russians attacked at 4 p. m. and were repulsed by the Japanese.

Late Friday night the Russians began an "offensive" in the Changkufeng area, covering an advance of infantry with artillery.

The Japanese counter-attacked in the early hours of Saturday. They cleared the area at 5:40 a. m. Sunday and at 6 a. m. Sunday occupied the hilltop which had been the center of the dispute.

At 7 a. m. Sunday the Russian artillery fired on the Korean towns of Kojo and Sazan.

According to a communiqué of the Japanese army in Korea, quoted by the Japanese Domei news agency, the Russians lost approximately 200 men killed or wounded, and 30 Russian dead were left on the field. The Japanese, it was asserted, captured 11 Russian tanks, two mountain guns and other arms. Japanese casualties, the communiqué said, had not yet been ascertained.

Incidents Separate

The fighting in which the Russians were alleged to have suffered 200 casualties, and the alleged bombardment of the two Korean towns were separate incidents.

The foreign office spokesman, discussing the clashes today, said that the accuracy with which Russian artillery was fired on Kojo showed that the "attack" was "premeditated." He said Kojo and Sazan were bombed for several hours from a distance of four kilometers (2 1/2 miles) and that firing did not stop entirely until nightfall Sunday.

TWO YOUTHFUL FLIERS CLAIM FLIGHT RECORD

COLUMBUS, Aug. 1—(UP)—A new endurance refueling record for lightweight airplanes was claimed today by a pair of youthful Columbus pilots, Cliff Haney and Bill Bullock.

The National Aeronautical Association gives no official recognition to non-commercial endurance flights.

OHIO PRISONER ESCAPES FROM STATE OFFICERS

COLUMBUS, Aug. 1—(UP)—An Ohio penitentiary convict, Frank Shapiro, 42, sentenced from Cuyahoga county, escaped today by jumping from an automobile enroute to Junction City.

Accompanied by a guard and two trustees, Shapiro was being taken to Junction City to complete plumbing work at the prison brick plant. When the car stopped for a traffic light, Shapiro jumped.

OHIO INSPECTOR FACES CHARGES ALLEGING FRAUD

COLUMBUS, Aug. 1—(UP)—State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson today made public a finding against Joseph Maiden, jr., state liquor inspector with defrauding the state of $115.70 in false expense accounts.

Ferguson recommended civil action against Maiden, who testified before the Ohio senate graft investigating committee last winter.

Maiden was charged with making false entries on his expense account on five occasions and with presenting fraudulent hotel receipts.

Ferguson said he is withholding $400 in expense money due Maiden pending settlement of the $115.70 account.

The auditor recommended that Attorney General Herbert S. Duffy advise Maiden's bonding company to recover the money. He asked Duffy which county prosecuting attorney should be given the case.

Ferguson charged that in September and October of 1936 Maiden turned in expense accounts for $32.17, incurred at the Ritz hotel in Canton but that Thomas J. Jackson, assistant hotel manager, made an affidavit that Maiden had not been there during those months. It was alleged that two false expense accounts for $28.60 incurred at Hotel McKinley also were collected.

Maiden was suspended on Jan. 14 after he testified before the senate committee but was reinstated two weeks later.

has classed him among Democratic ber of the house rules committee legislators cool or unfriendly to many Roosevelt policies and he has been blacklisted by labor's non-partisan league, political instrument of John L. Lewis' committee for Industrial Organization. Smith made week-end charges that Secretary of Interior Harold L. Ickes was "muscling in" on the Democratic party in Virginia's eighth district. Political observers watch the contest between Smith and Dodd as a possible indication of the effectiveness of party purge tactics. The C. I. O. political arm also has blacklisted Rep. Schuyler Otis Bland, D. Va.

Hamilton jumped into the Kansas campaign last month with a statement repudiating the Rev. Winrod's campaign which is rolling prairie air with anti-Jewish, anti-Catholic and anti-Negro radio. Winrod is a forceful radio campaigner who evidently has alarmed national and state leaders. They fear that his nomination would give a general election walkway to Sen. George McGuff, Democratic incumbent who is up for re-nomination and reelection. Editor White, who wound up a battered touring car in 1924 for a short-lived political campaign which served its major purpose of laughing the Ku Klux Klan off the Kansas stage, is in the fight against the Rev. Winrod. Former Gov. Clyde M. Reed is among Winrod's primary opponents.

Tomorrow's Missouri primary probably will make three-in-row for the renomination of Democratic senators who a year ago were thought to have been in political jeopardy because of their opposition to Mr. Roosevelt's judiciary reorganization bill. Sen. Bennett C. Clark, Democrat, who was as willing to run without White House support as with it, is expected to be renominated easily. Of the anti-court bill senators up so far none has been defeated for renomination. Already in are Sen. Frederick Van Nuys, D. Ind., and Sen. Guy M. Gillette, D. Ia.

Tennessee's Aug. 4 primary promises fireworks. On July 26 the senate campaign expenditures committee criticized Democratic campaign methods in Tennessee as pointing "sharply toward an election contest in the United States senate, regardless of which candidate triumphs." Memphis Boss Ed Crump and Sen. Kenneth McKellar are backing Tom Stewart for Democratic senatorial nomination. He is opposing Sen. George L. Berry who is backed by the state machine of Gov. Gordon Browning. Both sides have been charged with political activity among state and federal employees, respectively.

'TRAGEDY' CASE GOES ON TRIAL IN MAINE TOWN

South Paris Man Charged With Murdering Village Physician

DAUGHTER TO TESTIFY

Pardon Expected for Youth Who Took Blame After Finding of Bodies

SOUTH PARIS, Me., Aug. 1—(UP)—Francis M. Carroll went on trial today charged with murdering Dr. James G. Littlefield, aged physician and confidential adviser of youth in this placid town of 2,000 persons.

The state will charge that Carroll committed a morals offense against his daughter, Barbara, 18, that Dr. Littlefield learned about it when he was called to attend the girl, and that Carroll clubbed and strangled him to save himself from exposure.

Paul N. Dwyer, 18, the girl's sweetheart, who pleaded guilty to the murder and accepted a life sentence, was brought here from state prison to testify for the state. He said that he had taken the blame for killing both the doctor and his wife to safeguard the girl's reputation. He said that the truth would come out in Carroll's trial and he would get a pardon.

An assistant attorney general, Ralph M. Ingalls, handled the prosecution and Superior Judge William H. Fisher presided. A special jury panel of 93 had been summoned.

Holes in Shoes Checked

The sequence of tragedy began last Oct. 16 on a road near Arlington, N. J., when two state troopers saw an expensive sedan parked, the driver asleep in the front seat, his feet resting on the door. The policemen noticed that the sleeping youth had holes in the soles of his shoes. They thought it was strange that the driver of such a car should be bedraggled. They awoke and questioned him. Dwyer's explanations were unsatisfactory and they took him to police headquarters. There the car was inspected and the body of Mrs. Littlefield, 63, was found in the rear seat. Asked about the body Dwyer said: "You'll find another body in the trunk."

That body was Dr. Littlefield's. Dwyer readily admitted having killed both of them. The story he told was this:

He lived with his mother in South Paris. He had contracted a disease and had called Dr. Littlefield to his home to be treated. The doctor, who took an interest in the morality of youth, upbraided him. Dwyer said the doctor "made a remark that reflected on one of my girl friends, so I killed him."

The doctor had occasionally employed him as a chauffeur. He put the body in the trunk of the doctor's car, drove to his home and told Mrs. Littlefield that her husband had met with an accident in Boston and he would take her to him.

He drove around aimlessly for 24 hours, until Mrs. Littlefield became very suspicious and questioned him intently. Then, he said, he clubbed and strangled her, and continued his wanderings. Some 48 hours after the first killing the police found him asleep at the roadside.

He was returned here where he is known as an idler, loose in his affairs with the girls of the town. He found the townspeople outraged by the crime and almost unanimously leagued against him. Miss Carroll's name was not mentioned in the case, however, and on Dec. 2 he pleaded guilty, accepted the severest penalty imposed in Maine, and went to prison. Carroll, who is 43, was one of his guards during the time he was in jail here.

Gossip Brings Break

The case apparently had been closed when Sheriff F. F. Francis began a quiet investigation, apparently inspired by common gossip.

The grand jury met. It first indicted Carroll for a moral offense involving his daughter. But its investigation continued. Dwyer was brought back from prison.

Walnut Township Boys Start Long Journey

By S. D. FRIDLEY
Phone Ashville 79

Prof. F. T. Bowne, Smith-Hughes teacher in the Walnut township schools for the last several years, with some dozen and a half of his pupils in the Future Farmers of America Club, started Monday morning on their annual outing trip, visiting Niagara Falls, Erie, Buffalo, Detroit, Akron, Wooster and other points of interest. The trip will be made by bus with Russell Hedges as conductor and chief of transportation man. They expect to be gone one week.

Saturday our long time friend and the last one of our school teachers, Jerome Peters, Madison township, was a visitor in town and we much enjoyed a visit with him. We went back to old school days on then Loffers' Hill, (now Dockers) where he taught about 67 years ago. He highly prizes a school register containing the names of all the pupils who attended his school at the time. Many of them are now deceased. He recalled a star-gazing prank which a couple of the older boys played upon one of the boys of less age. They explained to the youngster that it was possible to see stars in the day time by holding his coat sleeve in such position that he could see through it. Well, he tried it to see for himself if it were true and it proved to be just that. A handy tin cup of water went swishing down through the opening in the sleeve and the stars "shone brightly" for the boy looking for them. But all those boys who played at star-gazing that long while ago at school on Loffers' Hill, are now where the stars never cease to shine, he thinks. At that early day, in the seventies, Mr. Peters taught for a time in that then, away far out west state, Nebraska. Indians were plentiful there then and they frequently passed his school. And on these occasions he always permitted his pupils to go to the windows and see them. In three weeks from today, Monday, August 22, Mr.

Carroll was relieved of duty, indicted on a charge of murdering Dr. Littlefield and jailed. It was revealed then that Dwyer had changed his story. He said that Carroll was the slayer. Dr. Littlefield had been summoned to Dwyer's home and Carroll was there when the doctor came. He produced a letter that Miss Carroll had written him, he said, accusing her father of attacking her. The doctor was outraged, threatened to expose him, and Carroll killed him.

The youth said he took the blame because he still was in love with Miss Carroll. Miss Carroll and her mother will be state's witnesses.

Peters will have reached his ninety-ninth birthday. He retains all his faculties to a remarkable degree and keeps well abreast with current events and neighborhood doings.

The old iron hitching rack yet standing along the west side of the Squires building has been there, so Clarence Squire says, for more than thirty years, having formerly served as a guard rail to the outside stairway leading down into the basement of the Squire building. There has been recent talk of its removal, but the members of the Court will file a hot protest against any such proceeding. When it has gone through a strenuous session at "headquarters" the Court members file out of the room and perch themselves upon this rack for an hour or so to relax and get fresh air. This rack certainly should not be removed until after the Fall election has been held and over with. Many have rose to the top of this rack and prominence during its stay here in the past thirty years.

HE-MEN IN SEASON

IT'S a great Summer for the out-door fellows fresh from the store and office. They may be a bit pale at the beginning of their two weeks, and very inflamed after the first couple of days. But by the time they start home, their persistence and courage have usually acquired a coat of tan that suggests a whole Summer in the open spaces or on the water. American genius for efficiency works here, as elsewhere.

It's a great Summer, too, for political candidates, an even harder breed in some ways. They attend innumerable picnics. They get themselves photographed fishing and cooking camp meals, pitching hay and getting in grain, posing on swimming beaches and wherever people congregate, shaking hands, fraternizing, neighboring, proving that they have a common touch and can take it on any front. They are the real heroes, and most of them will be wonderfully tanned before the Summer is over.

Then there are those who, from necessity or design, have nothing else to do, and spend the whole Summer getting themselves burned to a mahogany red or chestnut brown or Central American black, because they just plain like it. They are the enviable ones. And they will begin to look presentable again along about Thanksgiving time.

McGUFFEY'S READERS

IT is a strange thing that Henry Ford, who has done as much as any living man to plunge us into this mechanical and industrial age, with its vast social and political changes, should be harking back to McGuffey of the old school readers.

Photographed as he was the other day, sitting on the grass and reading from one of those forgotten books to an interested group of boys and girls, he made a charming picture. Yet, looking at that picture, many a man or woman who remembers the old books with veneration, may have thought of King Richard in the old play, saying sadly: "Let us sit upon the ground and tell sad stories of the death of kings." For the time, the spirit, the naive morality of those Victorian books which molded the literary taste of two generations, will never return.

McGuffey, no doubt, was good for his time. It would be hard to imagine the sharp, inquiring, tough-minded boys and girls of this generation reading his books without feeling that they are altogether of another world. There were no automobiles in them, no dynamos, no huge factories, no great corporations, no labor

HANES' TREATY BALKED

WASHINGTON—A far-reaching secret plan to bring national business and labor leaders together under government auspices to work out a cooperative program for industrial stability is being scuttled by the ferocious A. F. of L.-C. I. O. vendetta.

One man—A. F. of L. President William Green—is standing in the way of the realization of the ambitious undertaking.

The plan is the brain-child of Assistant Secretary of the Treasury John Hanes who, last Spring, as a member of the Securities and Exchange Commission persuaded a group of leading bankers and business men to sign a joint statement offering their assistance to the government to combat the recession.

Working quietly with Prentiss Cooney, unofficial Ambassador of Business to the New Deal, Hanes lined up more than fifty business leaders who were willing to sit down with labor and discuss their mutual problems in an effort to formulate a cooperative program.

He then turned to the laborites, approaching first John L. Lewis.

The C. I. O. chief readily agreed to confer with the business men. "That's fine," said Hanes, "now how do you feel about sitting at the same table with William Green?"

"I have no objections," replied Lewis. "I'll sit down with Green or anyone else if there is a possibility of bettering economic conditions."

Elated with this progress, Hanes then put the plan up to Green.

The A. F. of L. president also expressed willingness to meet with business leaders. "How about Lewis?" asked Hanes. "Will you meet with him?"

"Emphatically not," snapped Green. "I will not sit at the same table with that man or any other rebel from our organization."

Hanes is still hopeful he can work out some solution of the dilemma, but so far he has not found the answer.

World At A Glance

—By—
Charles P. Stewart

Uncle Sam and Canada are flirting again with the idea of building an up-to-date highway through British Columbia from the border, somewhere in Washington, to the Alaskan border.

This suggestion originally was made about 10 years ago. It got nowhere at the time but occasionally has been semi-revived since then. Now it is being urged quite vigorously.

It was a Yankee notion initially, the theory being that the United States ought to be in touch with its extreme northwestern territory otherwise than by water. Yet it was felt that British Columbia would profit by it also, and Canadians did not dispute this argument.

How to finance the enterprise was the essential problem to be solved.

ROUGH TERRAIN

The distance is considerable and the terrain to be traversed is rougher than the traditional tin lantern.

The job accordingly is bound to American proposal was to split the job's cost, internationally, 50-50. The Canadians were frank to say that, however much they might like the highway, they couldn't foot the bill on such a basis. Then 60-40 terms tentatively were offered. The Canadians replied that they couldn't stand that, either.

I think the "Canucks" were right. What way-station benefits they would be likely to get out of such a trans-British Columbian line of traffic certainly wouldn't compare with the advantages Uncle Samuel would derive from a direct land hook-up with Alaska.

Maybe now the U. S. will be disposed to be yet a bit more liberal.

BACK-DOOR TO ALASKA

The war department, in particular, is interested in insuring itself a landward back-door into Alaska. The navy and the coast guard can look after the Alaskan coast. The territory is said likewise to have been provided with increasingly formidable aerial protection. All the same, the army wants to be able to arrive on the scene in short order in the event of unpleasant eventualities.

Of course, in that area, Japan is the power our military men are suspicious of.

My own opinion is that the Japanese have their hands full already—with China and perhaps Russia. Still, they do poach in Alaskan waters.

BUT—

Nevertheless, for the sake of argument, assume the necessity for the transfer of American troops and supplies, from the U. S. proper, to Alaska, across Canada, versus the Japanese! Wouldn't quite an airtight Anglo-American alliance be required?

Canada would agree in a minute. I am sure of it. But home-staying England? It would take a lot of diplomacy.

EQUATOR PLEASANTER

President Roosevelt went to the Equator, fishing, to get away from Washington's hot weather.

He showed his good judgment. I have lived on the Equator. It isn't as hot as this town has its spell of being. It's moderately hot ALL THE TIME but it isn't as hot periodically. What makes the Equator tiresome is the everlastingness, not its intensity. A specific Equatorial thermometer of 110 isn't as oppressive as 95 in Washington.

The bugs are what get you in the tropics. Here they have their off-seasons. There they're perennial. A mosquito gets to be as big as a bumble-bee. A cockroach is an inch at his waistline.

But the president lying off-shore, misses these critters.

Diagnosis of Allergy Sometimes Is Mistaken

by LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

DOCTORS ARE as anybody to run things into the ground. When a new idea comes out in medicine, there are those who begin to specialize in it, and for a while they think that every symptom on earth can be ascribed to one cause. As time goes on more sensible ideas begin to prevail.

It is a good sign then to have a report from the allergy society reporting mistakes in diagnosis by the allergists themselves.

Allergy came into fashion a few years ago, and has been made much of. It is a state of hypersensitivity on the part of some individuals to dusts, flower dusts, animal dandruff and foods. A typical example of it is hay fever. The allergic person is sensitive to the pollen from certain plants, mostly ragweed. The rest of us, even though we are breathing the same pollen as the hay-feverite, are not affected. But because he is allergic to ragweed pollen, as soon as even the slightest bit gets in the air, he sneezes and sniffls and weeps.

Allergy as a state of the body undoubtedly exists and causes a variety of conditions, including asthma and many kinds of skin eruption. These facts are proved: everybody who has studied the question agrees to the allergic nature of hay fever, asthma and hives. Infantile eczema in most instances also belongs in this category.

Some Controversial Matters

But there are some controversial matters: for instance, intestinal and gall bladder allergy. Can sensitizing substances, particularly foods, cause a spasm of the intestinal muscles or gall bladder muscles and thus produce symptoms? There is no logical reason why they can't. Sensitizing substances affect particularly smooth muscle—asthma is due to a spasm of the smooth muscles of the bronchial tubes. And the intestines and gall bladder have smooth muscles in their coats. No, there is no reason why such allergy should not exist, but does it?

Many allergy specialists have said it does. And they have often pointed triumphantly to cases where more conservative doctors have made a diagnosis of gallstones and then the patient was cured of his discomforts by removing certain foods from his diet. It is quite a reversal then, and a sign of honest thinking, to have an allergist, Dr. Lambright of Cleveland, report on some cases in which the shoe is on the other foot. In these patients, the allergists diagnosed allergy and something else was found. In one, pain over the right upper abdomen was called allergy to wheat, but gallstones were found at operation. In another, allergic asthma was diagnosed, but a hidden goiter pressing on a bronchial tube was the real cause of the distress. In still another, the heart, not pollen, was proved to be responsible for a case of asthma. Such reports indicate a healthy state of mind.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Seven pamphlets by Dr. Clendening can now be obtained by sending 10 cents in coin for each, and a self-addressed envelope stamped with a three-cent stamp, to Dr. Logan Clendening, in care of this paper. The pamphlets are: "Three Weeks' Reducing Diet," "Indigestion and Constipation," "Reducing and Gaining," "Infant Feeding," "Diabetes," "Feminine Hygiene" and "The Care of the Hair and Skin."

CHAPTER 26
"TAKE MY CAR," Julian said, as soon as he knew that Noel at last knew where she could find Jimmy. Then he added, "Hurry, but don't take any unnecessary risks."

He meant of course that Noel was not to let her anxiety to find Jimmy and bring him to Laurie make her drive too fast.

She promised him that she would be careful, and a few minutes later found her on the way to Willow street where the Barton Stave and Spoke company was located.

A policeman gave Noel careful directions. She was to follow the cross-town car tracks, turn at Riverview park, drive about five blocks west, then about three blocks south.

It was a long way out there, and seemed endless to Noel. She found herself at last in a district of small shabby homes with the streets growing more and more narrow as she drove slowly along scanning the numbers on the houses, and then quite abruptly the numbers ended at a high board fence, which was definitely the end of the street.

Noel looked about, puzzled. She saw a sign behind the high fence: "Barton Stave and Spoke company."

So she had found it. The next thing was how to get in. She parked the car and walked around the fence looking for an entrance. Suddenly a voice spoke in her ear. "What're you lookin' for lady?"

"I was wondering how to get in," Noel turned and faced a laborer.

"I'll show you the gate," the man said and walked a few yards down a plank sidewalk which was practically hidden with weeds, to where there was a gate on which was written: "Employees Only."

"It's not locked," he said and opened it for her.

Then Noel stood inside, gazing bewilderedly at the huge place with its five or six buildings all with numberless windows. No doubt several hundred people worked here, Noel thought. How on earth would she find one man out of all that number when all she knew about him was that his name was Jimmy? But she was going to find him—that was all there was to it. She would not go back this time without Jimmy.

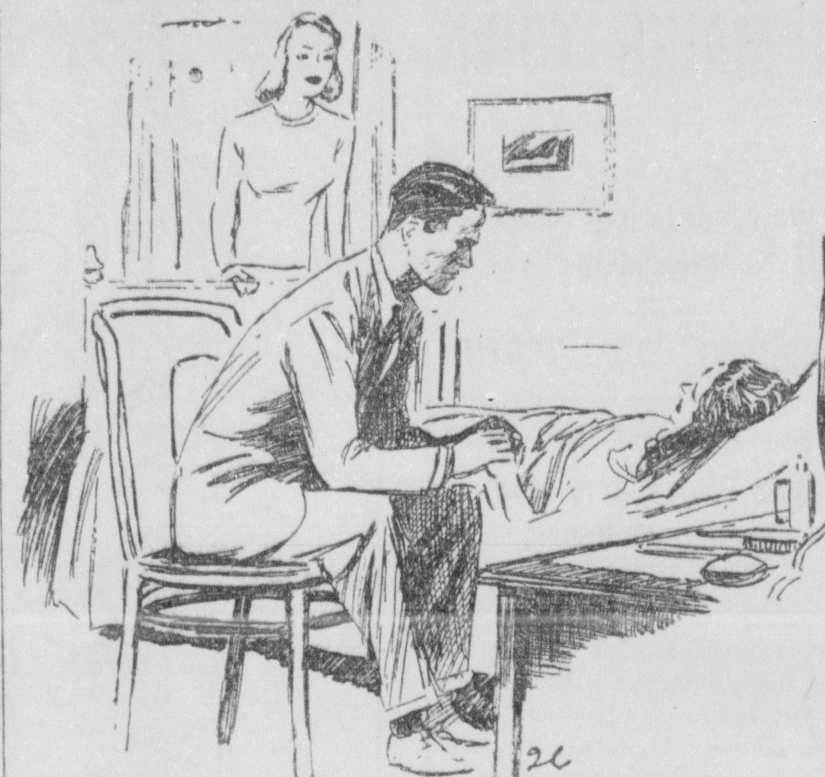

She had heard the whirring noises before she had entered the yards. But now that she was approaching the buildings, the noise was deafening.

Nobody paid any attention to her—this small, slender girl in a much worn tweed suit and a little "beanie" thrust over her pretty curls. At last Noel timidly entered a building where there were a number of men at work in laborer's clothes.

She stood there for a moment undecided. Then she moved toward a man who was in the act of lifting a huge billet of wood to place it on a sort of carrier with wheels.

"I'm looking for a young man by the name of Jimmy," Noel began, trying to raise her voice above the whirr of the machinery. But she couldn't even hear her own voice in that awful din, so she felt sure nobody else could hear. The man she had addressed hadn't even lifted his head.

Noel stood there growing more perplexed every minute. Then the man turned to lift up another billet and saw her. An expression of surprise crossed his rough kindly face.

A faint smile crossed Laurie's face and vanished.

He came toward her, beckoned her to come out of the building. Then when he could be sure of being heard, he asked, "What would you be wantin', miss?"

"I want to find a young man by the name of Jimmy," she said urgently. "That's all I know of his name, but I must find him at once."

The laborer scratched his head. "Bout half the men working around here are named Jim or Bill," he said. "Seems like when they run out names, they always fall back on Jim, it being sorta homey-like. And them that's not named Jim or Bill are mostly Bob or Joe. That's my monicker, Bill."

"But I must find this particular Jimmy at once," Noel urged. "I'll take you to the office," the man said, and led the way around the side of the factory to a small building which was like a cottage. On the door was written: "Office. No Admittance Except on Business."

But Noel went in boldly after the laborer had gone back to his work. A fair-haired young man sat on a high stool behind a cage. Noel explained quickly why she had come.

When she finished, he said in a friendly voice, "Why, that ought to be easy. We'll just find a man named Jimmy who knows a girl named Laurie."

Noel was almost able to smile in her great relief. The young man left the office. He was gone about 20 minutes. When he returned, a young man was with him, red-haired and boyish looking with kind, red-brown eyes.

"I only found about two dozen Jims and Jimmy's, but this is the Jimmy who knows your friend," the fair-haired young man told her. Then added, "His name is Delevan."

"What's wrong with Laurie?" Jimmy asked in a husky voice. "She has pneumonia," Noel told him gently.

He saw his face go white under his tan. "That's terrible," he exclaimed. Then he turned, "I'll be ready to go with you in about half a minute."

He was wearing a khaki shirt and dark trousers. He disappeared into an adjoining room, and came back wearing a neat dark suit.

"Stay as long as you're needed, Jimmy," the fair-haired man said.

Circleville Friends At Bolin-Burkert Wedding

Columbus Home
Scene Of Ceremony

Mr. and Mrs. Stuart Robinson Bolin, 27 Franklin Park West, Columbus, announce the marriage of their daughter, Virginia, to Mr. John William Burkert, son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Burkert of Columbus. Mr. and Mrs. Bolin are former residents of Circleville.

The wedding came as a surprise to 60 relatives and close friends who had gathered at the Bolin home Saturday in response to invitations to an afternoon tea, honoring Miss Bolin.

Miss Louise McLaughlin sang several solos, accompanied by Miss Zella Roberts, preceding the ceremony which was performed in front of the mantel in the living room before which stood a white steeple screen and a large basket of peach colored Picardy gladioli. Tall cathedral candles twined with garlands of southern smilax were on either side.

Mr. Burkert accompanied by Mr. Robert Tyler, the best man, advanced down the aisle preceded by the Rev. Ronald Garney of St. Paul's Episcopal church who read the ceremony.

Mrs. Vaughn Chase, in rose lace, Miss Roberta Bolin in soft wedge-wood blue, Miss Mary Burkert in crisp gold organza, Mrs. Earl Link in watermelon chiffon with touches of orchid, Mrs. William Bennett and Mrs. R. H. Seibert, both in pastel afternoon prints, served as ribbon bearers. Mrs. Leslie Henry of Toledo, a sister of Miss Bolin, served as matron-of-honor. Her gown was a Chantrelle chiffon and she carried a bouquet of Tallsmen roses and black scabiosa. Miss Bolin was given in marriage by her father.

Her bridal gown was fashioned of madonna blue marquisette over heavy blue satin, the bodice and long train of the frock appliqued with gleaming satin fleur de lis. The full veil fell from the real lace headress of the same blue which formed a becoming halo worn far back on her dark hair. She carried a bouquet of cream colored gladioli, tuberous rooted begonias and lilies of the valley.

The bride's mother was gowned in pink lace with which she wore a corsage of blue delphiniums and Mrs. Earl Burkert, mother of the bridegroom, wore printed chiffon with a corsage of deep red roses.

After the wedding, about 100 friends of the bride and bridegroom, called during the hours of 4 to 6. Among those assisting in the dining room were Mrs. Thomas W. Brown of Circleville and house guest, Mrs. J. G. Hollenbeck of St. Louis, Mo., an aunt of the bride, and Miss Mary McCrady of this city.

Mary guests from Circleville were asked for the wedding and reception including Mr. and Mrs. Brown, Miss McCrady, Mrs. Mary Boggs, Mr. and Mrs. C. K. Hunsicker, Miss Margaret Hunsicker, Miss Irene Parrett, Mr. and Mrs. Bernard W. Young, Mr. and Mrs. John Caldwell, Mrs. O. H. Duntion, Miss Florence Duntion, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Wright, Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Wilder and Mr. and Mrs. Walter L. Kindler.

The former Miss Bolin is a graduate of Ohio State university and is a member of Delta Delta Delta sorority. She has been a teacher in the Columbus schools for the last few years.

Mr. Burkert attended Ohio State

Today's Fashion

PRINTS go on and on, which is not surprising, for a printed frock or frock with jacket is always right for daytime occasions. This model, for instance, could go anywhere during the day. It is of white silk with a design in bright cyclamen pink. The bolero has an inch-wide edging in cyclamen, and the buttons down the front of the dress bodice are in the same shade. A pleated inset down the center front adds to the crisp look of the dress.

SOFTBALL LOOP GAME DELAYED BY WET GROUND

Wet grounds, caused by a weekend of rain, caused postponement today of the softball league game between the Cincinnati Oils and Fenton Cleaners. If the grounds are in condition play will be resumed Tuesday with Purina Chows and Bronzoville Jollies tangle. Managers of all league teams are urged to attend an important meeting Monday evening at 8:30 o'clock in The Daily Herald office. Only team managers or a representative are to attend the meeting. Several matters of importance will be considered.

FELLER TO SEEK VICTORY AGAINST WASHINGTON '9'

CLEVELAND, Aug. 1—(UP)—Bob Feller went after his 12th victory of the season here today as the Cleveland Indians played the final contest of a series with the Washington Senators. Today originally was an open date in the schedule, but when rain forced postponement of yesterday's contest, the Senators were held over to prevent the necessity of playing a double-header on their next swing west.

By using Feller today Manager Oscar Vitt was forced to change pitching plans he had made for the crucial series later in the week with the third place Boston Red Sox and the league leading New York Yankees.

Feller, according to current plans, will not work against the Red Sox. Mel Harder and Johnny Allen will pitch in the first two contests with Denny Galehouse and Johnny Humphries slated for the others.

Feller, Harder and Allen will go in that order against the Yankees. The idleness yesterday cost Cleveland a full game in the pennant chase as the Yankees took two from Chicago. The Indians now trail by two games.

HERMAN GOES TO CHICAGO BENCH; BACK IS OUCHY

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 1—(UP)—Manager Gabby Hartnett's league pennant hopes faded today when Billy Herman, field captain and second baseman, joined the Chicago Cubs injured list with a wrenched back.

Herman's back was wrenched when he collided with Frank Demaree while chasing a short fly ball in a game against the Phillies yesterday. He was expected to be

Whizzer White to Join Pirates; Studies Later

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 1—(UP)—Byron (Whizzer) White, the University of Colorado's all-American football hero, will play professional football with the Pittsburgh Pirates this season before attending Oxford university on a Rhodes scholarship.

White accepted the $15,000 contract offered him for the coming season early today in a telephone conversation with Arthur Rooney, president of the Pittsburgh Pirates, members of the National Professional football league, Rooney announced.

Rooney, who selected White in the league draft at Chicago last December, said White will go to Oxford in January after completing the regular league schedule of 11 games and four or five exhibition games.

The nation's most highly publicized football player will perform in the Pirate backfield and is expected to give the Pirates that needed extra punch to make them a contender for the championship.

White's decision was a reversal of one made six weeks ago when he publicly announced he had turned down the $15,000 contract because he feared he would lose the valuable scholarship and because he believed his English classmates at Oxford would frown on a professional athlete.

The Pirates selected White in the draft after a number of teams passed him up because he had said he would not play professionally. Rooney took a chance, offered a fat contract and proceeded to gather several new players to teamup with White.

This morning at one o'clock White telephoned Rooney that the Rhodes scholarship committee had granted permission for him to delay entrance at Oxford, although by enrolling about Jan. 1 he will have missed the first three months of the regular law term.

He will report to Coach Johnny Blood of the Pirates Aug. 10 at their training camp at St. Francis college, Loretto, Pa. The remainder of the team will have been there three days by then.

DEMOCRATIC RALLY HEARS FINANCIAL DIRECTOR PRAISE DAVEY

300 REGISTER FOR PICKAWAY COUNTY OUTING

Scare-Crow Tales Concerning Pension Division Played By Ohio Official

GRAND JURY ASSAILED

Goeller Praises Governor For Increased Number Of Jobs Obtained

"As interested working Democrats we have no apologies to offer for the achievements of today or in the past," Ray Allison, state director of finance, said in an address Saturday night at the Democratic outing at Gold Cliff Chateau, sponsored by the county executive committee. More than 300 persons registered for the event. Numerous others who attended failed to register.

"Democrats have a fine record for a quarter of a century," the speaker said. "They have been responsible for workmen's compensation, better schools, improvements in the health, agricultural, welfare, highway and banking departments."

"I am sincerely proud of the fine official family that Gov. Davey has seen fit to select. Every financial challenge has been met. That is an asset to boast about. "During the last week you have been told some scare-crow tales about the old-age pension department. The old-age pension department is in the best financial condition since its establishment in 1934. What other governor before Davey ever administered the old-age pension system?" The speaker praised the liquor department for its operation on a high business standard and the use of the profits of the department for pensions.

Jury "Demagogic" The Franklin county grand jury investigating the administration was termed "demagogic" by the speaker. "What would you think of a grand jury sitting in Circleville, inquiring as to what was going on in Ashville, when right here there was crime to be investigated?" the speaker asked. "Why don't the grand jurors go to city hall where the Republicans are?"

Mr. Allison related the work of the health and highway departments in the flooded areas of Ohio last year.

"Ohio's financial condition is an outstanding challenge to any state in the union," the speaker said. "We have no new taxes, the budget has been balanced every year with a reasonable substantial balance."

Mr. Allison's address, scheduled between 5 and 6 p. m., did not take place until about 9 o'clock. Many who had attended the outing during the afternoon had left.

Goeller Speaks

Lawrence Goeller, chairman of the county executive committee pointed out that Pickaway counties have some "extra good reasons" why they should support the Davey administration. He explained that two years ago 160 Pickaway counties were on the state payroll, the majority of them at the Orient institution. Now the county has 302 employed in state positions.

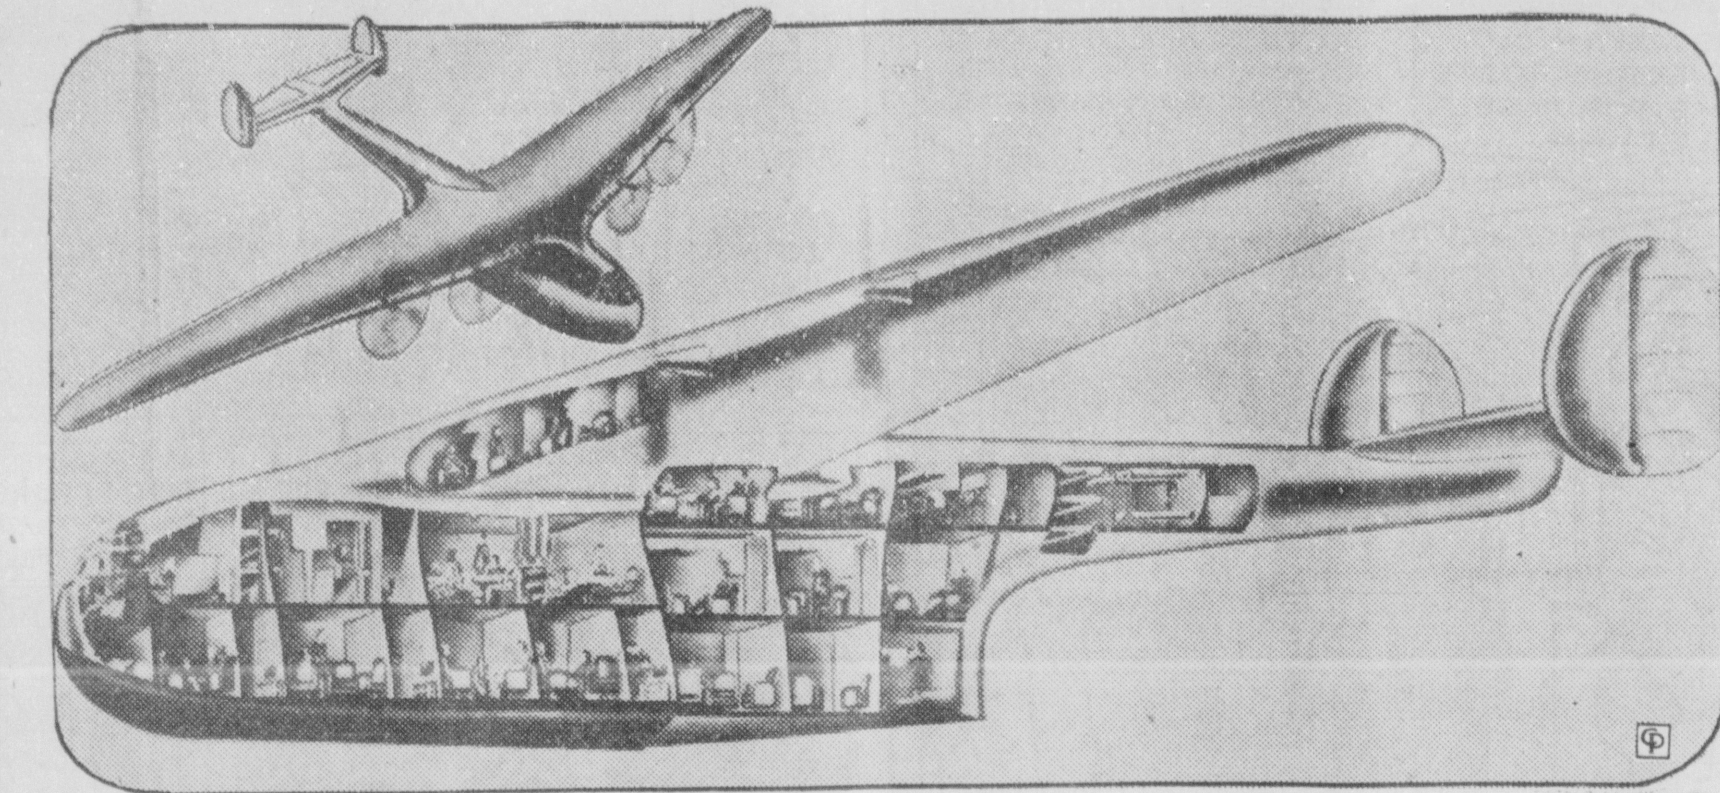

Various candidates for state and county offices were introduced by Mr. Goeller. The outing was closed with a dance.

FOURTH EMPLOYEE ADDED TO AGE PENSION OFFICE

Miss Clarissa Talbut, 439 E. Union street, formerly employed at Crist's Department store, started her duties Monday as an investigator in the Pickaway county Division of Aid for the Aged.

Her appointment was made in the state Department of Public Welfare, Division of Aid for the Aged. Increased work in the department necessitated the appointment of an additional employee. The Pickaway county office now includes four employees. They are:

How Proposed 100-Passenger Flying Boats Will Look

HERE are drawings of the proposed 100-passenger flying boats, designed for use by Pan-American Airways. Four engines will drive the ships at 276 miles per hour. Wing span is 194 feet and overall length is 102. Of the 100 passengers on the ship, 36 will be carried in the ship's wings while 64 and a crew of 16 will be carried in the vessel's main compartment.

Theatres

AT THE CLIFTONA

Co-starring Ginger Rogers and James Stewart as a new romantic team, "Vivacious Lady," a sparkling, fast-moving comedy, opened yesterday at the Cliftona theatre, and proved to be one of the screen's gayest recent offerings.

The film, is a vehicle for titian-haired Ginger Rogers, whose recent triumph was in "Stage Door"; and for James Stewart, who scored decisively opposite Simone Simon in "Seventh Heaven," and later in "Wife versus Secretary." "After the Thin Man," "Rose Marie" and others.

The breezy story concerns itself with the early marital troubles of two newlyweds, one of whom is a reticent professor of botany at a small college, and the other a vivacious night-club beauty born and reared in the dizzy whirl of Broadway. Their contrasting personalities, backgrounds and ambitions attract them to each other, after a hasty marriage, they return to the young man's home town to settle down. But the shy instructor loses his nerve when it becomes time to introduce his intolerant father to his bride, so she agrees to pose temporarily as a friend of her husband's playboy cousin.

AT THE GRAND

The custom of many Little Theatre groups to adjourn to country barns for the Summer season found a counterpart recently in the Twentieth Century-Fox film company which invaded a secluded California farm for sequences for "Checkers," Jane Withers' latest picture.

In an old-fashioned red barn, white-washed inside and complete with harness and tackle, water buckets, hay loft and assorted miscellany, Jane, Stuart Erwin, Una Merkel and Marvin Stephens filmed their scenes for the new hit, at the Grand theatre.

Engrossed in the serious business of cud-chewing, four black cows paid no attention to the movie stars in their midst and two horses in adjacent stalls did likewise. These scenes "down on the farm" form the preliminary backgrounds to a great story that makes it easy to laugh a lot and hard not to cry a little.

O. S. U. SUMMER QUARTER ENDS ON SEPTEMBER 2

Pickaway county students attending the second term of Ohio State University's Summer quarter will complete their work Sept. 2, when a record Summer class of 800 is graduated.

Dean Charles E. MacQuigg, native of Ironton now head of Ohio State's engineering college, will be the graduation speaker. MacQuigg, an Ohio State alumnus, returned to the campus a year ago after extensive experience in industry and research.

With the opening of the second term last week, Ohio State's enrollment reached a new Summer peak of 6000, as compared with last year's 5259.

Several May Die Of Train Wreck Injuries

ROCKY RIDGE, O., Aug. 1.—(UP)—Wet rails and a crowded schedule were blamed today for a train accident in which 21 persons were injured, several so seriously they may die.

Approximately 50 persons were treated at the scene for slight cuts, bruises, and shock.

The Commodore Vanderbilt, deluxe passenger train of the New York Central operating between Chicago and New York, crashed into the Mercury, a stream-lined train of the same road, operating between Detroit and Cleveland, from behind.

The trains were running only five minutes apart. Both operate at high speeds. The Mercury "grazed" an automobile at a crossing here and stopped to investigate.

As required by regulations. It was raining and when the Commodore Vanderbilt came roaring along, her brakes wouldn't hold. She skidded into the mercury's observation car, wrecking it.

The injured were:— Brekke, Mrs. Marshall, 46, Scarsdale, N. Y., bruises. Brown, Mrs. John, 47, Winnetka, Ill., internal injuries, condition serious.

Coleman, Miss Mary, 45, New York City, internal injuries, condition serious.

Davis, Mrs. Richard, 29, of Cleveland, cuts.

De Campi, Miss Ella, of the Chicago bureau of the New York Daily News syndicate, cuts.

Direnfeld, Morris, 33, Detroit, shock.

Gilmer, Thomas, 35, Negro waiter, cuts and burns.

Haggerty, Mrs. H. B. 46, Zachary, La., a sister of Mrs. Brown; internal injuries, condition serious.

Hoskins, 39, Negro Porter, bruises.

Howell, 37, Negro waiter, cuts.

McCarty, Miss Patricia, 20, a students nurse, Cleveland, broken leg, internal injuries, condition serious.

Miner, W. M., Negro waiter, cuts. Morris, George of New York Daily News syndicate, internal injuries, condition serious.

Moseman, Clay, 40, dining car cook, scalds.

Osborne, L. M., 46, Evanston, Ill., employee of Standard Brands, Inc., internal injuries and severe shock, critical condition.

Peterman, John Mrs. 61, Cleveland, cuts.

Reeves, James, 32, Negro waiter, cuts.

Tukarz, Edward, 20, dining car cook, cuts.

Wilson, Charles, 43, dining car cook, bruises.

Bornik, George, 46, of Cleveland, shock.

Borik, Leda, 42, his wife; shock.

Ironically, the driver of the automobile which the Mercury grazed, the indirect cause of the accident, drove off in the excitement and his identity was not established.

Of the injured, Osborn was the most seriously hurt. An operation was performed on him in the Toledo hospital where he was taken, but physicians feared he would die.

B. C. Gallon, engineer of the Commodore Vanderbilt, said his train was going 10 to 15 miles an hour when it plunged into the Mercury. He slammed on the brakes the instant he saw the block signals had changed against him, but the wheels skidded on the wet rails.

The critically injured were all in the observation car of the Mercury. Those nearest its platform saw the Vanderbilt emerge suddenly out of the rainy and hazy twilight and either leaped off to the ground or forward into the car. But in both trains passengers were flung out of their seats, the chairs and tables in the dining cars skidded about injuring diners, and waiters.

The rear truck of the Mercury's observation car and the front truck of the third car from the engine were derailed. It had nine cars in all. The Vanderbilt was made up of 14 cars. Both trains were full.

Dr. George A. Poe, of Cleveland, said he treated about 50 persons for slight cuts, bruises, and shock at the scene.

After it grazed the car, the Mercury was brought to a full stop, then was backed to clear the grade crossing for inspection. This served to shorten the distance from the Vanderbilt.

Approximately an inch of rain drenched Circleville during the week-end. More showers were predicted for Monday.

Rainfall up to 8 a. m. Sunday amounted to .35 of an inch. Between 8 a. m. Sunday and the same hour Monday the rain amounted to .68 of an inch. Highest temperature Sunday was 83, the lowest during the night, 70 degrees.

Rainfall in Columbus Sunday amounted to 2.02 inches.

NELSON EDDY RETURNS

Nelson Eddy, popular baritone star, returns to his regular post on the air Sunday, August 7. John Barrymore is the guest star with the regular company of Edgar Bergen and Charlie McCarthy. Dorothy Lamour, the Stroud Twins, Robert Armstrong's orchestra, and Edward Arnold, who is still pinch-hitting for the vacationing Don Ameche.

The concert tour which Nelson Eddy just concluded took him to all parts of the United States where he consistently broke attendance records. Charlie McCarthy heads the welcoming committee which promises Nelson a "warm reception."

John Barrymore, distinguished actor of the stage and screen, will appear with Edward Arnold in a dramatic sketch at the half-way point of the program which is broadcast over the NBC red network at 7 p. m. A highlight of the entertainment will be "Hamlet," Barrymore's first set-to with the incorrigible "Romeo" McCarthy.

Nelson Eddy sings four songs, both popular and classical; and will enter into a skirmish with the talkative half of the Stroud Twins. The singing of Dorothy Lamour in popular numbers of the day will also be a feature of the star-studded hour.

CHILD ACTRESS IMPROVES AFTER GRIPPE ATTACK

BOSTON, Aug. 1.—(UP)—Shirley Temple, suffering from a mild attack of grippé, was reported "much better" today.

When doctors last examined the nine-year-old movie star, her temperature had dropped from a high of 103 to 99. However, she will remain in bed at her hotel for at least another 24 hours, it was believed, and will be in Boston probably until Thursday.

Her personal physician, Dr. Leo J. Madsen, arrived here by plane from Hollywood last night and hastened to the Temples' hotel suite. He confirmed the opinion of Boston physicians that Shirley was in no danger.

Her illness may result in cancellation of further sightseeing. The strain of traveling 7,000 miles, mostly by automobile, since May 28, was believed to have been partly responsible for the illness. She was to have left today for Montreal. She was stricken Saturday, the day after her arrival here.

ALL HOPE LOST FOR RECOVERY OF BIG PLANE

U. S. Army, Navy Searchers Unable to Find Clue To Hawaii Clipper

PLANES, SHIPS IN HUNT

Pacific Over Three Miles Deep at Location Where Slick Was Found

MANILA, P. I., Aug. 1.—(UP)—Hope virtually was abandoned tonight that the fate of the Hawaii Clipper and its 15 occupants ever would be determined.

U. S. army and naval authorities, although they had not given up the search, believed that if the clipper had not crashed into the sea it would have been found today during the intensive search by 14 vessels and seven airplanes. From the spot given in the last radio message that came from the giant flying boat at 12:09 p. m. Friday, Manila time (11:09 p. m. Thursday, Circleville time), the sea craft and planes conducted a systematic search. They followed the general course that Capt. Leo Terletzky and his crew would have been expected to travel toward the Philippine coast.

But, except for the oil slick which the U. S. army transport Meigs found Saturday, there was no indication of what might have happened to the clipper. Preliminary tests made by the Meigs showed that the oil contained gasoline, making it unlikely that the oil had come from a steamer.

Clipper Not Afloat

It was improbable that the clipper was afloat and escaped observation of the sailors and pilots in today's hunt. The vessels and planes were routed toward the mainland. Their course was mapped so carefully that it would have been almost impossible to have missed the clipper had it been on its regular course.

Pan American officials were reluctant to admit that the 15-ton flying boat apparently had crashed at sea. They still held hope that the clipper was safe; they said perhaps its radio would not work and it had been unable to make known its position.

There seemed little to substantiate that theory. Since the search began Friday morning the area around the Philippines, particularly the vicinity of the last reported position of the clipper, has been hunted thoroughly. At the time of its last radio report the craft was 565 miles out from Manila and was in no particular trouble. The plane had encountered a rain storm, but no mention was made of its having difficulty.

If the clipper did crash into the sea there is little chance that the wreckage will be found. The sea is almost three and one half miles deep where the Meigs found the oil slick.

COURTIGHT FUNERAL

Funeral services for Benjamin F. Courtright, 80, Circleville township farmer, who died Saturday, will be held in the home on the Walnut creek pike at 2 p. m. Tuesday with the Rev. H. A. Bloom of Stoutsville, officiating. Burial will be in Forest cemetery in charge of Crites & Van Cleave.

Women of Siberia usually wear at least 30 pounds of clothing.

NORMA NOT TO PLAY SCARLETT O'HARA'S ROLE

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 1.—(UP)—The guessing game of who will get the role of Scarlett O'Hara in the movie version of "Gone With The Wind" started again today. Norma Shearer announced that she had decided against accepting the part.

Miss Shearer, chosen after almost every actress in Hollywood except Shirley Temple had been considered at one time or another, made public her decision in a brief mimeographed statement passed out by her studio's press agent.

"I have decided," she said, "that I should not play Scarlett. I am convinced that the majority of fans who think I should not play this kind of a character on the screen are right and I appreciate tremendously the interest they have shown."

Her press agents said Miss Shearer had received thousands of letters from fans protesting that they did not wish to see her on the screen in the role of Scarlett in Margaret Mitchell's novel.

For weeks, it had been predicted she would leave the role and be replaced by Katharine Hepburn or some other actress.

Skeptics shook their heads when the tentative choice of Miss Shearer was made several weeks ago by Producer David O. Selznick. The producer had planned to produce the picture on the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer lot and borrow the star from M-G-M. It was suggested that Miss Shearer was the star of even-tempered roles. Her temperament, it was said, was hardly suitable for the spiteful role of Scarlett. Also, Miss Shearer is 34, and Scarlett is made in her late teens and early twenties.

Mrs. Paul Valentine of Washington township was a Circleville shopper, Friday.
